

HANDLING HARASSMENT & VIOLENCE IN THE WORKPLACE

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

Did you know most management personnel and employees do not understand what subtle sexual harassment behavior is? Did you also know workplace violence is the #1 killer of women in the workplace, and the #3 killer of men? This workshop explores violence in the workplace and defines sexual harassment, quid pro quo and hostile work environment. Participants will learn how to prevent sexual harassment and strategies for stress management. This class also teaches how to prevent and manage a workplace crisis.

This workshop is an optional course for Roads Scholar and is worth six professional development hours.

INSTRUCTOR: MICHAEL A. KING

Michael A. King earned his degree in Sociology and Criminology from Murray State University. He has spent his career in the design, development, delivery, and evaluation of training for government and private sector organizations since 1980. He has conducted workshops for the Kentucky Transportation Center since 1990.

AGENDA

Introduction/Orientation

Sexual Harassment

Break

Violence in the Workplace

Lunch

Violence in the workplace (Cont.)

Break

Emergency Preparedness

Summary/Evaluation